

- Services that have running processes can be stoped if credentials allow.
- ✕ Removing a service should be a last resort action and used with caution.
- ⊘ Disabling a service prevents it from running without having to remove it entirely.

B Entries in bold are not handled by launchd for the user running Loadables
(they can not be disabled as that has no effect on them)

Tt Entries that are not grayed are not present by default in the operating system and have been added either by a third party or a subsequent operating system update.
